Dear Dr. Twefik:

I cannot tell you how sorry I am that Dr. Wise is again compelled to change the appointment. He has just had word that a beloved friend of his has died in Pittsburgh, and he must leave immediately for the funeral service.

I am sure you will forgive Dr. Wise and permit me to telephone some time next week and arrange another appointment.

Sincerely yours,

Ida Tilles

Your Excellency:

I deeply regret that I was not in my office when you called yesterday. It is good to hear of your coming through our friend, Mr. Norman Bentwich. I should be very glad to see you at any time that would suit your convenience. The best time for me, if it were possible for you too, would be 3 P. M. Wednesday, October 17. If that hour be impossible for you, I could manage to see you early in the afternoon, say at 2:30 Thursday, October 18.

I am, Your Excellency,

Faithfully yours,

Monday Evening

My Dear Dr. Riza Tewfik,

I have just received your note, and it is now after ten o'clock, and I am preparing for bed. I really understood you to say that I should come to see you at 9 o'clock to-morrow morning, when I shall have much to tell you. I went to the Sublime Porte this evening, and received very important information which I wish to give to you to-morrow morning. Therefore won't you please send your man for me at about 9 o'clock? and I will be ready to go with him to meet you.

Very sincerely yours,

Dear Professor,

It is with sincere thanks that I return you my best regards for having the kindness to send me your letter of introduction to Constantinople.

I was a little delayed here but I hope to start for Constantinople almost immediately and to reach there about a week from now. Unfortunately I do not expect to be there long - but intend to go straight forward to Monastir, where my address will be the British Consulate. At Constantinople I expect to stay at the Hotel des Dames.

I hope that you are enjoying your

Stay in Cambridge, I am only sorry that so many of the professors are likely to be away at this time.

I shall hope to hear from you again when I get to Manastir - about the 5th September.

Professor and Mrs. Manzali, who are staying at this hotel, have told me much about you - and they wish to join with me in kind remembrances to you. That you are well from letters, which, I am sure, will be very useful.

Believe me
